Backstory & personality

Zander was born into a family of skilled shoemakers in a secluded Elvish village. Despite his family's expectations for him to take over the family business, Zander felt a deep connection to the magical energies that flowed through the world. He spent his days secretly practicing spells and honing his sorcery skills in the forest. Balancing his studies with his duties as a shoemaker, Zander found solace in the neutrality of magic, using his powers to maintain balance and harmony in the village. His dual identity as both a sorcerer and a shoemaker gave him a unique perspective on the world, allowing him to navigate different realms with ease.
As he grew older, Zander decided to embark on a journey to explore the world beyond the village, seeking to expand his knowledge of magic and find his true place in the universe. With his trusty wand in hand and his Elvish heritage
